New York, March 2.—Praise of the highest sort is being heaped on the National league's board of directors for its action in the "Jack" Taylor case. The board acted fairly in the matter. It apparently took all things offered as evidence into consideration, and then rendered the decision with the characteristic ableness of the greatest jurists of the highest courts in the United States. The word of the ball player who depends on ball playing for his living was given free precedence over that of the gamblers, some of whom will resort to any means to win. The gamblers' evidence was taken with due allowance of the source, and Mr. Taylor was acquitted.

On his own admission that he, owing to a night with the boys, was unfit to pitch on that July 39, Taylor was accorded his dues, a fine of $300.

Hinted That P. N. League Case May Again Come Up Before Board. (Special to The Heraid.)

Chicago, March 2.-There was an in-formal session of the national board of minor leagues today, but only routine matters were discussed. The board yesterday, through Tebeau and Farrell, put the Pacific National Baseball Great Attention Showered Upon Deleague out of the running as an official organization, and supplanted it with a new league made up of six teams.

It was hinted that Williams and Wilmot, of the old organization, may yet try to effect a compromise, but both Farrell and Tebeau declined to say what would be the probable outcome of such effort. Farrell, Lucas, Sexton and Tebeau are among the minor league officials who are at present in the city, and it was said that several more will probably arrive in the next few days.

There is nothing definite regarding a meeting of the minor leagues here, but the air is filled with all sorts of rumors concerning various deals.

The judge handled each ballot gain, opening the packages of challenged ballots and passing the ballot first to the attorney representing the side which had challenged the ballot. If this side decided to press the challenge it was then passed to the opposing attorneys, and if they still objected the judge rendered his decision without giving reasons and without hearing arguments on law points or anything except suggestions that might assist in determining whether superfluous marks had been made deliberately or by accident. It was noticed that a superfluous marking made deliberately in the making of a cross or the apparent leaving off intentionally of one of the lines of the cross caused the rejection of the ballot. The morning session of court was taken up with arguments. Judge Powers concluded his summary of the attitude of the contestants on the question of what ballots should be counted and what ballots should be rejected. Judge Maginnis made the summing up of the arguments for the contestees. In the afternoon Judge Morse proceeded to the recount of the challenged ballots without announcing any rulings. It was only when he began to pass on individual ballots that it became known how he would rule. He made a separate ruling on each individual ballots.
